The Grayling City Council, last week, gave Grayling City Clerk Michele Moshier a pay hike after she filed a complaint with city officials.

Moshier, who has been the Grayling City Clerk since August 2002, was passed over for a pay increase for the city's 2009-10 budget year.

Former Grayling City Manager David Thayer gave pay hikes based on merit.

Grayling City Police Chief Doug Baum, who is serving as the acting city manager, said other part-time and full-time employees were given pay increases. While researching the issue, Baum said there were no records of complaints or disciplinary issues in Moshier's employee file.

Baum recommended the council give Moshier a two-percent pay increase, retroactive to July 1, 2009, which will cost the city $900. Page 3

Juvenile Bald Eagle dies from injuries

In a sad twist of irony, a Bald Eagle, which was adopted by the country's founders as the national bird and symbol for the United States, had to be euthanized from injuries sustained at Camp Grayling last week.

Lt. Col. James Gardiner, the assistant post commander at Camp Grayling, said construction crews notified officials that a power outage occurred in the 600 Block at the military base on Monday, June 14. Several projects, including the construction of barracks that will allow troops to train at Camp Grayling year round, are taking place in the area.

Gardiner said Camp Grayling maintenance employees were sent to investigate the power outage. They found a juvenile Bald Eagle bleeding on a hill near Camp Grayling's wastewater treatment plant. Page 2

Fifty-five competitors took part in the Grayling Rotary Disc Golf Course "grand opening" event — the Course Record Challenge Tournament — on Saturday, June 12, at Hanson Hills.

The tournament, designed to establish records on the new course, featured three different divisions: men's long tees, men's short tees, and women's short tees.

The first place finishers in each division were: men's long tees — Ryan Herzog (53) -8; men's short tees — Zac Cauchy (56) -2; women's short tees — Elena Ongaro (85) +27. Page 11

It's a bird, it's a plane, it's a "Super Student" with a new set of wheels for the summer thanks to Camp Grayling officials striving to preserve wildlife and the environment.

The Camp Grayling Conservation Club (CGCC) strives to preserve our natural resources for future generations. The club instills a conservation ethic in the children of the community by sparking an interest in the surrounding wildlife and their habitat.

Every year, the CGCC provides the materials to make birdhouses to fourth grade students in the Crawford AuSable School District. The first student's birdhouse that produces hatchlings wins a brand new bicycle.

This year's winner is Flynn Powers, a student in Renee Lewicki's fourth grade class. Flynn resides with his parents, Joe Powers, the superintendent of the Crawford AuSable School District, and Cindy Powers, a teacher at the Grayling Middle School, on North Peterson Road in Frederic.

A blue bird took up residence in the birdhouse shortly after it was mounted. A few weeks later, five eggs were laid, which all successfully hatched.

Cindy Powers called Luanne Shirkey, a CGCC representative, on May 17 to report the newly hatched birds.

Maj. Bernie Peters, CGCC member and Chief of Operations at Camp Grayling, and Bob Smith, the owner of the Bicycle Shop, presented a brand new bike to Flynn on Wednesday, June 16.

Shirkey said CGCC members appreciate the support extended by the Bicycle Shop, the teachers, the parents and the community in making the birdhouse program successful. She said the CGCC would also like to recognize the volunteers that assisted in putting the kits together and all the students that participated in this year's contest.

County to give evening meetings a try

by Dan Sanderson
Staff Writer

Crawford County citizens will get a chance to see how the Crawford County Board of Commissioners perform in the later afternoon and evening hours in August.

Jeri Selthoffer, a Crawford County Equalization Department employee and vice president of the Crawford County Library System Board of Trustees, sent a letter to the county board requesting they move their meetings to the evenings.

Given mistrust in national and local leaders, Selthoffer said the board should be more accessible to its constituents with the upcoming elections and other issues facing the county.

"Many people feel separated from those in charge and even more estranged when meetings are held at times when it is impossible to attend," Selthoffer said.

Carol Conklin, a clerk in the Crawford County Prosecutor's Office and chapter chairwomen for the Association of Federal, State and Municipal Employees Union representing some county employees, said a number of county residents would like to see the board return to holding evening meetings, especially before elections are held.

"It's like everything else - times change," Conklin said.

Conklin added that the public would like to have an opportunity to give input to the board before commissioners are sworn in for the new terms in January.

"It's up to the commissioners to decide what you're going to do, but on the other hand, it might be in your best interest to listen to the people now and see what their concerns are rather than later and maybe having a change," Conklin said.

County Commissioner Scott Hanson said the board had evening meetings previously, but there was no change in the amount of people who attended meeting held during the day.

"I wouldn't mind changing some of the meetings, but I wouldn't recommend that we do all of our full board meetings in the evening hours," he said. "Some meetings just last too long."

County Commissioner Shelley Pinkelman suggested holding the board's

City terminates cemetery sexton

Grayling City officials terminated the community's part-time cemetery sexton last week.

Ben Chouinard, sexton for the Elmwood Cemetery, was terminated from his position on Monday, June 14.

Grayling City Police Chief Doug Baum, who is serving as the acting city manager, said he reprimanded Chouinard prior to firing him from his position because corrective actions were not taking. Baum told the Grayling City Council that Chouinard was behind on having foundations, which headstones and cemetery markers sit on, laid in the cemetery.

Baum said he was not inclined to further comment on the issue, when contacted by the Avalanche on Monday.

"It's an employee matter and it's something that we took care of," Baum said.

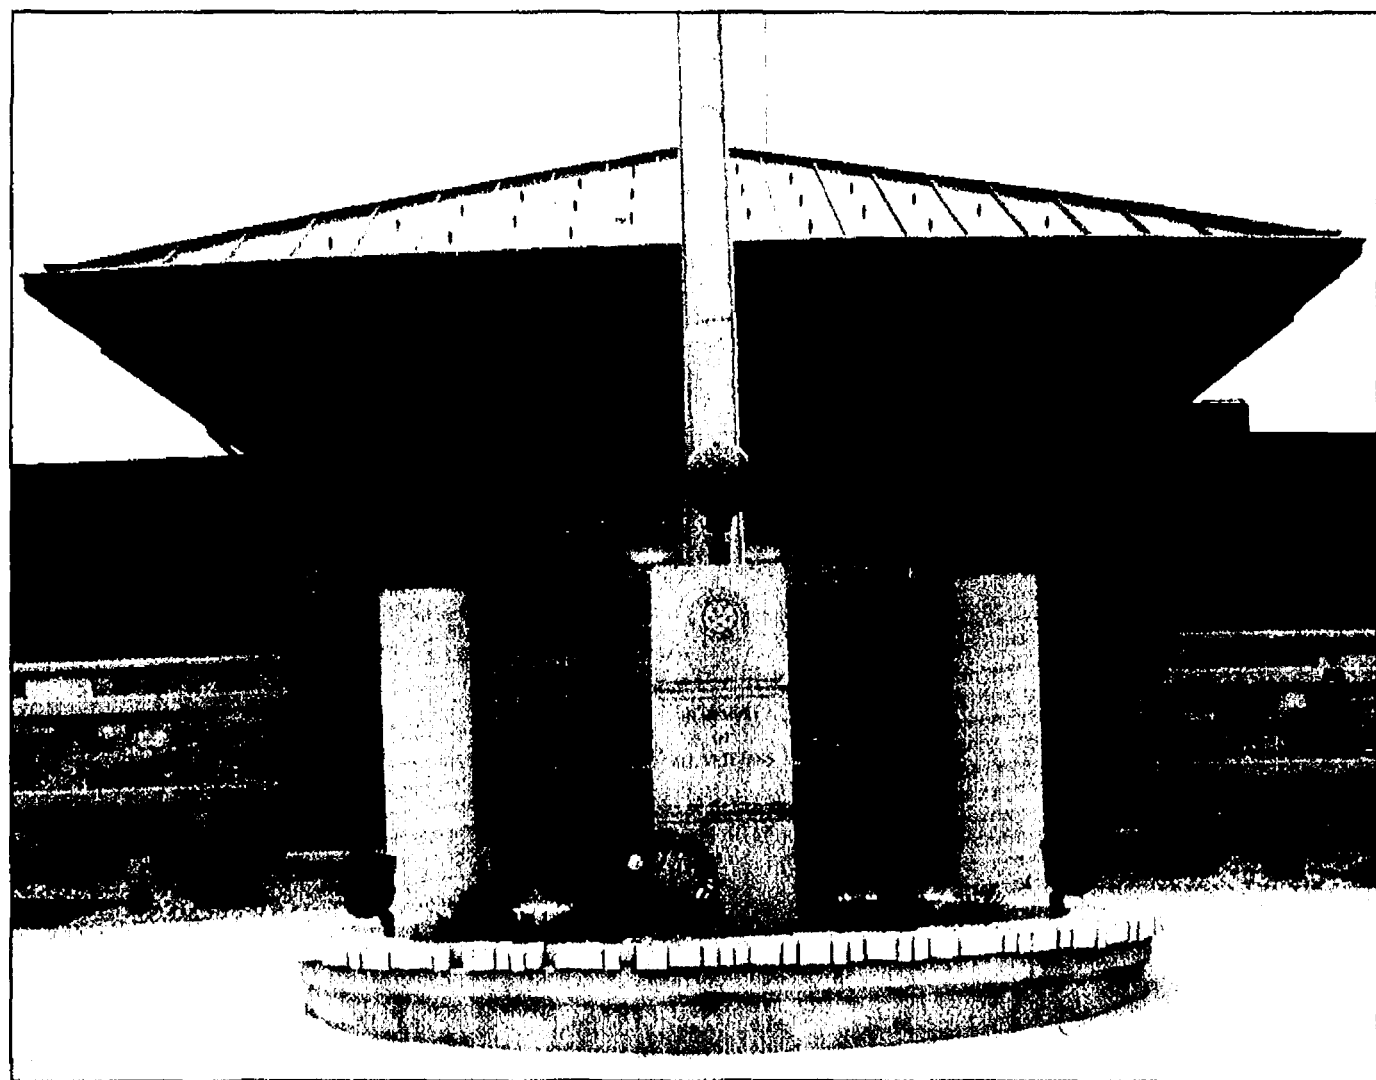

Chouinard said he would not change how he performed his job given the time, resources and funds he was given to work with.

"It was a pleasure working for the city," he said.

Grayling Mayor Karl Schreiner said city staff has fielded a number of emotional calls from families seeking to have matters addressed in the cemetery so they can have some closure.

"It's symptomatic of problems that have been occurring," Schreiner said.

Juvenile Bald Eagle dies from injuries at Camp Grayling

by Dan Sanderson
Staff Writer

In a sad twist of irony, a Bald Eagle, which was adopted by the country's founders as the national bird and symbol for the United States, had to be euthanized from injuries sustained at Camp Grayling last week.

Lt. Col. James Gardiner, the assistant post commander at Camp Grayling, said construction crews notified officials that a power outage occurred in the 600 Block at the military base on Monday, June 14. Several projects, including the construction of barracks that will allow troops to train at Camp Grayling year round, are taking place in the area.

Gardiner said Camp Grayling maintenance employees were sent to investigate the power outage. They found a juvenile Bald Eagle bleeding on a hill near Camp Grayling's wastewater treatment plant.

At first, Camp employees thought the juvenile Bald Eagle and an adult Bald Eagle were fighting, and the younger bird collided with a the power line after being injured and falling from the sky.

"That's just speculation on our part," Gardiner said.

Gardiner said some Bald Eagles call Camp Grayling home in an area known as Bear's Point on Lake Margrethe.

"We do have some permanent residents here on the lake," Gardiner said.

Camp Grayling contacted the Association to Rescue Kitters (ARK) based in St. Helen to retrieve and hopefully save the Bald Eagle.

Ruth Fruehauf, director of ARK, responded to the camp with an animal carrier, medication and equipment. She said it was merely a point of picking up the Bald Eagle, which had been infested with maggots, at that time. That indicated that the bird had been on the hill, where a bloodstain and loose feathers were located, for some time.

"It was in terrible shape," she said.

Fruehauf took the Bald Eagle to the Roscommon Veterinary Clinic, which is owned and operated by Dr. Paul Mesack of Grayling. Dr. Troy Fairbanks examined the bird. He and Fruehauf decided the bird should be euthanized because it could not be "realistically rehabilitated."

"I think he would have died on his own, but I did not want him to suffer any more than he had," Fruehauf said.

Fruehauf does not believe the Bald Eagle was electrocuted. She said the power outage likely occurred during the heavy rainstorms, which occurred on Friday, June 11.

Fruehauf said the Bald Eagle had a cut on its neck starting in the back to its crop. Its feet were also black, indicating that a lot of blood was lost because of the injuries.

As a precaution, the bird was x-rayed at the Roscommon Veterinary Clinic to determine if any objects were in the body of the Bald Eagle. The x-ray revealed that nothing impacted the bird.

Fruehauf said the Bald Eagle was sent to the Department of Natural Resources and Environment to be necropsied - an autopsy performed on animals.

"It's in the hands of the DNR right now," she said.

The Bald Eagle was chosen on June 20, 1782 as the emblem of the United States of America, because of its long life, great strength and majestic looks. The Continental Congress adopted the current design for the Great Seal of the United States including a Bald Eagle grasping 13 arrows and a 13-leaf olive branch with its talons.

committee as a whole meeting in the evenings or later in the afternoon. The meetings, starting at 3:30 p.m. on the first Thursday of the month, are held for the board to address law enforcement, personnel and ways and means (financial) issues. The board discusses issues at the meeting and takes votes, which are only recommendations for the full board meeting held at 9:30 a.m. on the third Wednesday of the month.

"That's when a majority of the discussion takes place," said Dave Stephenson, chairman of the Crawford County Board of Commissioners.

Stephenson said board members do follow up research after the first meeting of the month, which may prompt them to change their votes at the full-board meetings.

County Administrator Paul Compo suggested the board hold evening meetings in July, before the Aug. 3 primary election, and October, prior to the Nov. 2 general election.

The board attempted to schedule a meeting for 4:30 p.m. July 21. Pinkelman, however, said she had prior arrangements and could not attend the meeting. Crawford County Clerk/Register of Deeds Sandra Moore also reminded the board that the AuSable River Festival, which is scheduled for July 20 to July 24, would be held that week and would be starting to draw hundreds of people to town when the meeting would be held.

"That's the night they have the HUP (Hurry Up and Paddle) races and business relays," Moore said.

Conklin said she preferred that the full-board meetings be held in the evenings rather than the committee meetings to give the public a chance to attend.

"If they are lucky enough to have a job right now, they can't take off time to come to these meetings, but they're still interested in what's going on," Conklin said.

Joyce Sorenson said that Chouinard was harsh when he approached her in the cemetery and asked if she had a release to bury the remains of her husband, Lewis Sorenson. Sorenson said she already obtained the release and paid the fee for the burial.

"We need somebody with a little bit of sympathy for that job," she said.

Terri Lockwood, owner and manager at the Sorenson-Lockwood funeral home, said she looks forward to forging a better rapport between families and the city when it comes to dealing with burials.

"We look forward to better service for the residents with whatever system the city puts in place and we will do everything at the funeral home to make sure that happens," Lockwood said.

In related news, Baum discovered that there was $400,000 in a cemetery perpetual care and maintenance fund. The Elmwood Cemetery is owned by the City of Grayling and Grayling Charter Township.

Baum said township and city officials have opted to keep $250,000 plus three months of operating cost in the perpetual care fund. The remaining funds will be redistributed to the township after being reviewed by Grayling City Attorney Michael Edwards and Grayling Charter Township Attorney Richard Jaskowski.

City Council gives city clerk pay hike

by Dan Sanderson
Staff Writer

The Grayling City Council, last week, gave Grayling City Clerk Michele Moshier a pay hike after she filed a complaint with city officials.

Moshier, who has been the Grayling City Clerk since August 2002, was passed over for a pay increase for the city's 2009-10-budget year.

Former Grayling City Manager David Thayer gave pay hikes based on merit.

Grayling City Police Chief Doug Baum, who is serving as the acting city manager, said other part-time and full-time employees were given pay increases. While researching the issue, Baum said there were no records of complaints or disciplinary issues in Moshier's employee file.

Baum said it would cost $3,000 to bring an outside investigator in to address the issue. A similar investigation was completed in April, when Ben Chouinard, sexton for the Elmwood Cemetery, filed workplace harassment against Baum. Chouinard filed the complaint after Baum cursed at him during an employee meeting. Baum was cleared of the charge.

Chouinard was terminated from his position on Monday, June 14.

Baum recommended the council give Moshier a two-percent pay increase, retroactive to July 1, 2009, which will cost the city $900.

"It's up to a call of the council and how you want to deal with this because it does deal with budgetary issues," said Grayling Mayor Karl Schreiner.

The city council opted to give Moshier the pay increase, which will carry over into the city's next budget year, which begins on July 1.

"The way I see it, we should be making things right and bringing her up to where the other employees are at," Grayling City Council Member Karl DeVries said.

Grayling Mayor Pro Tem Larry Akers said that Moshier not only handles city business, but also coordinates the use of the city meeting room for regional Homeland Security meetings.

"She bends over backwards and is very accommodating," Akers said.

Schreiner credited Moshier for serving as acting city manager when Allen Lower resigned from the position. She is now helping out in Thayer's absence.

"I assure you it's not over with," Schreiner said. "It's going to take some time to get over with this."

Thayer was placed on leave in February, and the city council terminated his contracts on May 24. He was given $62,060 to cover six months of his salary, health insurance and fringe benefits. He faces three cases for alleged misdemeanor criminal offenses, all connected to city operations, in Crawford County District Court.

Moshier was pleased with the decision made by the city council.

"That's all I want is to get what everybody else did," she said.

Almanack

Women candidates shun top Michigan primaries

WOMEN CANDIDATES in several hotly contested June primaries in several states came out pretty well.

"Women rule in primaries," a USA Today headline proclaimed. Is this the year of the woman?

In California, Republican Meg Whitman won nomination for governor, and Carly Fiorina captured the GOP bid for US Senate. Both plowed personal mega-millions into their campaigns, cashing in on their earlier careers as business executives. Ms. Whitman at eBay and Ms. Fiorina at Hewlett Packard.

In November, Ms. Whitman will take on former governor and now Atty. Gen. Jerry Brown. Ms. Fiorina will face veteran Democratic Sen. Barbara Boxer.

In South Carolina, State Rep. Nikki Haley led three male rivals in the campaign for Republican nomination for governor, and forced a runoff.

In Nevada, the Republican senate nomination went to a Tea Party favorite, Sharron Angle, who will take on veteran Sen. Harry Reid, Democratic leader in the senate, in November's election.

In Arkansas, two-term Democratic US Sen. Blanche Lincoln, generally considered a moderate, turned back a determined bid from the liberal side of her party, won a runoff, and will face a conservative Republican push in November.

Yes, indeed, women did just fine in these top-notch June primaries.

WHAT ABOUT our own Michigan primaries?

The governor's race is without an incumbent for the first time in eight years, and fighting for the job is severe in both parties, with seven top candidates – all male – in the running.

Originally two female candidates for governor were in the mix, one in each party, but both preferred dropout to showdown.

Republican Terri Lynn Land, facing term limits as secretary of state after eight years, seemed a natural as a gubernatorial candidate but decided to step aside and cast her lot with Oakland Sheriff Mike Bouchard as his candidate for lieutenant governor.

Democrats had a female candidate for a while, too. State Rep.

Alma Wheeler Smith was in the race for quite a while, but on the final day for filing petitions she revealed she, too, was withdrawing because, she said, Democrats had another candidate to her liking, and she did not want to be decisive. Ms. Smith also may find a spot as lieutenant governor candidate on the state of one candidate or another.

WHY THEN a gender gap in Michigan, while female candidates around the country seem to be doing very well?

The answer probably is that Michigan already is there.

Gov. Jennifer Granholm has been Michigan governor for eight years, and the first of her gender as governor.

Michigan also has a woman in the United States senate, Debbie Stabenow, now in her second six-year term after election to the US House and a long career in the state legislature and county government. She also ran for governor once against Republican Gov. John Engler, but lost the primary, ended up on the ticket as lieutenant governor candidate and lost that, too, before going to Congress.

Both Ms. Granholm and Ms. Stabenow are Democrats.

Two of Michigan's current 15 members of congress are women, Republican Candice Miller and Democrat Carolyn Cheeks Kilpatrick, and several Michigan women, in addition to Ms. Stabenow, have been elected to the US House down through the years.

The elected Michigan Supreme Court is currently dominated 4-3 by female jurists.

Perhaps gubernatorial dropouts Terri Lynn Land and Alma Wheeler Smith both decided it would be too difficult to sell voters on the idea of following in Gov. Granholm's immediate footsteps.

MICHIGAN TAKES a back seat to no other state in female participation in government, which does not completely represent the gender division in the larger general population, but is closer than in many other states.

Although Michigan will not choose a second female governor this year, there likely will be plenty of women on the statewide tickets of both parties in November.

Both male candidates for governor could well select a female running mate for lieutenant governor, such as Sheriff Bouchard already has done.

The secretary of state slot being vacated by Ms. Land is another likely landing spot for a woman candidate. There's just something about a job with "secretary" in the title that tends to set it apart as a woman's job. That's unjustified and unfair, but it's true.

Female candidates likely will appear as well on the November ballot for the state supreme court and several of the eight positions to be filled on various state education boards.

In addition, literally hundreds of women will be before voters this year in congressional, legislative and local elections.

It may turn out to be the year of the woman in Michigan, too, once all the ballots are counted, but just not for governor.

Imagine how a family feels when their dog gets hit

To the editor:

About three weeks ago on June 12, as I was leaving home, I came to the end of my driveway, looked down the street to turn and saw a white dog laying on the road. It was my neighbor's dog, he was only 8 months old. I didn't want to believe at first it was him. I was hoping he would move or breathe not thinking the worst.

I went and checked and he was dead. Whoever had hit him had dragged him off to the side and just left.

The neighbors down the road had stopped and also were surprised. They told me that their dog got hit a couple of weeks prior to this had to have stints put in his legs and is doing fine.

I called my neighbors, which was very hard to do. The one thing I was thinking about is how devastated the children would be when they come home from school and "Tucker" wouldn't be greeting them again. Whoever hit the dog imagine how a family feels when their dog gets hit?

Why didn't you stop and find out who's dog it was? If you would have come to my house I could have told you who he belonged to. Would you have left the scene if it was a human being?

I understand if a dog or any animal runs out in front of you that sometimes you are not able to stop in time. But you could have found out who he belonged to. Shame on you.

There are a lot of motorists that just fly down this road please slow down.

Washington Notes

By Carl Levin, U.S. Senator (D-Michigan)

Hiking to the heart of Michigan's natural wonders

One of the joys of my job is that my travels across Michigan give me an opportunity to enjoy our state's abundant outdoor recreation opportunities. On a cool Saturday morning a few weeks ago, that meant hiking a portion of the North Country Trail – a great chance to enjoy some of Michigan's beauty and to see a stretch of the trail I've been working to help improve for years.

To celebrate National Trails Day, I joined about 15 members of the Tittabawassee Chapter of the North Country Trail Association on a portion of the trail near Alba in Antrim County. I hiked with them for two miles, over rolling and forested country, and as we walked, the association members told me about the abundant plant and animal life we passed, their work maintaining the trail, and the damage done to local forests by a recent tent caterpillar infestation. We all owe these volunteers, who perform much of the work in establishing and maintaining these trails, a big thanks.

Two miles, of course, is just the tiniest sliver of the North Country Trail. Created in 1980, the trail stretches for more than 4,500 miles, from Upstate New York to North Dakota, making it the longest trail in the National Park Service system. It crosses into Hillsdale County from Ohio, and winds through some of Michigan's most scenic territory all the way to the Wisconsin border near Ironwood.

I and other lawmakers in the North Country Trail states have worked hard to support the trail and to protect wilderness areas through which it passes. I continue to seek "unit status" for the trail, a technical designation that would mean greater access to National Park Service funding and programs.

This year, I was joined by seven Senate colleagues in asking the Senate Appropriations Committee to boost funding for the trail. Last year, we enacted legislation that I introduced to ease the acquisition of land for the trail from willing sellers.

The North Country Trail may be our state's longest, but many paths, short and long, cross our state, highlighting our scenic beauty, history and culture.

On the same weekend as my North Country Trail hike, I visited the Thunder Bay National Marine Sanctuary near Alpena, where we dedicated new improvements to the Great Lakes Maritime Heritage Trail. The trail shows off the beauty of Lake Huron and some of the rich shipping history of the Great Lakes.

I am an enthusiastic supporter of funding for the Leelanau Scenic Heritage Trail, 27 miles of trail that connects the major scenic areas of Sleeping Bear Dunes National Lakeshore on Lake Michigan with the villages of Empire and Glen Arbor. I have worked to secure funding for projects along the Detroit River establishing a walkway and greenway along that historic waterway, which once was an industrial wasteland and is now being transformed into a hub of recreation and environmental preservation. And this year, I am seeking funding for several trail projects, from the historic Iron Range near Marquette to the Lake St. Clair shoreline in Macomb County.

I support these trail projects because for some Michiganders, they are places to exercise; for others, they're a means of transportation; for still others, a way to find quiet and inspiration. For all of us, they're an important connection to the natural beauty that lies at the heart of Michigan's identity and spirit. Through farmlands and forests, along the shores of mighty lakes or the banks of quiet streams, these trails mean the scenic wonders of our state are just a short hike away for all of us. I hope you'll join me this summer in taking advantage of these paths to Michigan's beauty.

Carl Levin is the senior U.S. senator from Michigan.

Michigan Fly Fishing Festival to benefit conservation

Now in its fourth year, the Michigan Fly Fishing Festival is a great opportunity to celebrate northern Michigan's rivers and streams while strengthening conservation efforts in the region.

The Fuller's North Branch Outing Club is hosting the two-day festival where there will be catch and release tournament, free fly fishing, fly tying, casting lessons, scotch and wine tasting and many other activities to benefit Huron Pines, a regional conservation nonprofit that completes a number of on-the-ground restoration projects every year in Northeast Michigan.

Todd Fuller, the Festival's founder and proprietor of Fuller's North Branch Outing Club, launched the event so the people using the river could also be the people protecting the river.

"This festival is a great way for anglers and outdoor enthusiasts to celebrate while helping the rivers they love to fish. Our coldwater streams play such a vital role in Northeast Michigan and I want to help bring people together to advance the long term conservation of this precious resource", said Fuller

"Ninety percent of our work is bringing partners together," said Brad Jensen, Executive Director at Huron Pines. "Our Huron Pines partnership with Fuller's has been a good one through the years. Our rivers and the public can really benefit from cooperative efforts between not-for-profit conservation groups like ours and outdoor-based businesses like theirs. Putting the event proceeds back into conservation will really benefit the Au Sable River and we encourage community members to show their support of river restoration by attending this event."

The festival kicks off on Saturday, July 17 with the Fly Fishing Challenge and runs Saturday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. through Sunday, July 18 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

One of the main attractions, the Mackinaw Harvest Music Series Concert, includes folk singer Alan Cayn, Jose Rose, Michael Crittenden and Troll for Trout, and Northern Skies.

Huron Pines will also be bringing the River Model, a river processes simulator that can fast forward time to illustrate how rivers naturally change and how they respond to manmade disturbances.

Tickets are $10. Fuller's North Branch Outing Club is located at 6122 E. County Road 612, Grayling. For more information about the festival, please visit <http://www.fullersnboc.com/news/event.php?id=214> or contact Todd Fuller at (989) 348-7951 or info@fullersnboc.com.

The Bible Speaks

Israel's Blame for Failing

In Romans 11:22 we study the rationality of holding Israel responsible for her past sins and fall. "22Behold therefore the goodness and severity of God; on them which fell, severity; but toward thee, goodness; if thou continue in his goodness: otherwise thou also shalt be cut off." We live in an age when everyone talks about the love, goodness, grace, mercy, forgiveness, and the God of Heaven, but few believe anymore in God's severity, anger, wrath, vengeance, judgment, or the God of Hell.

First, God is consistent in all His revealed attributes: "22Behold therefore the goodness and severity of God..." James 1:17 tells us all good things come from God: "17Every good gift and every perfect gift is from above, and cometh down from the Father of lights, with whom is no variable-ness, neither shadow of turning." God remains immutable or unchangeable in all His attributes. Deut. 4:24 says, "24For the LORD thy God is a consuming fire, even a jealous God." Jude 1:7 teaches that those of Sodom and Gomorrah, "...are set forth for an example, suffering the vengeance of eternal fire." We are reminded in 2 Thess. 1:7,8 that "...the Lord Jesus shall be revealed from heaven...In flaming fire taking vengeance on them that know not God, and that obey not the gospel of our Lord." Jesus Christ said more about the everlasting, unquenchable fire of Hell than any other person in the Bible. He described the torment as producing "wailing and gnashing of teeth."

Second, humans are constantly changing and making wrong choices. This was true also of the Jews which fell because of their pride and unbelief in God's word: "...on them which fell, severity..." Every human being who chooses to sin and disobey God's word is personally responsible for his or her own sin and fall. Even God's simplest presentation of the gospel reminds us of the results of our choices. For example in John 3:15,16,36: "15That whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have eternal life. 16For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life. 36He that believeth on the Son hath everlasting life: and he that believeth not the Son shall not see life; but the wrath of God abideth on him." The choice is between faith in Jesus Christ as God's love gift unto eternal life or perishing under God's wrath for rejecting the shed blood and sacrifice of His Son Jesus Christ as your personal Lord and Savior.

Third, saints and true churches continue in the faith or persevere: "...if thou continue in his goodness: otherwise thou also shalt be cut off." Romans 9:6 reminded us they are not all Israel that are of Israel; and Romans 2:28,29 remind us it is not the outward things, form, or birth right which determines true Jews, but the inward spiritual condition of each heart. So also, the Gentiles in each church are given the same warning. Not all people who claim to be Christians are Christians, and not all Churches are true Churches. Jesus said in Matt. 7:22,23 many preachers will call Him, Lord, claim to work miracles, and be exorcists, yet He will say to them, "I never knew you: depart from me, ye that work iniquity," Pastor "B"

Icehouse Quilt Shop celebrates 30th anniversary in business

by Dan Sanderson
Staff Writer

The Icehouse Quilt Shop marked 30 years of supporting creative quilters on Saturday.

Staff and customers for the Icehouse Quilt Shop surprised owner Ali Baynham with a quilt containing 30 squares, individually designed by the quilters and incorporating Baynham's favorite colors - orange and lime green.

The project was assembled by a group of quilters while Baynham was out of town. Nancy Webster of the Northwoods Quilting did the quilting for the project.

Every shopper at the Icehouse on Saturday was encouraged to sign the quilt sashing as a remembrance of 30 years in Grayling. The quilt will continue to be on display at the shop, and all visitors are invited to stop in, see the handiwork and write their well wishes on the quilt.

Baynham's parents, Jill and Dave Wyman established the Icehouse Quilt Shop, located at 509 Norway Street, in 1980. The name of the shop comes from the original use of the building, providing ice to trains, which stopped at the depot in Grayling. Visitors can still see the four-inch by 12-inch beams that supported the weight of the ice. Ali and Ted Baynham purchased in the business in 2001.

The Icehouse specializes in northern prints and brightly colored fabrics and kits, with a constant array of finished quilts on display.

The "Unique Boutique" in the shop features clothing, jewelry and accessories created by local artists. The Four Seasons Gallery upstairs is a collection of quilts and giftware.

Classes by staff and visiting artists are offered regularly.

The Icehouse Quilt Shop marked 30 years of supporting creative quilters on Saturday. Above, owner Ali Baynham is pictured with a huge birthday cake served at a cookout to celebrate the anniversary.

Honors (Sports)

Jensen Aubry, a GHS junior, was recently named to the Division III all-state first team for baseball as a first baseman. Aubry batted .505 with four home runs, 16 doubles, and 36 RBIs for the Vikings during the 2010 season.

"He is the first baseball player from Grayling to be first team all-state and only the second to ever make first or second team all-state. He has an outstanding work ethic and love for the game, and will play at the next level. Most of all, he is a great person, an athlete every coach wants others to emulate," Coach John Schneider said.

Wednesday Ladies League

What a dismal day was had by the Wednesday gals on June 16. It was misty, cold and windy and if it wasn't for the great company I was with, I would have gone home. Maybe this was an initiation for our new members who have joined us this year. I haven't mentioned them before, but they are Char Clark, Pat Kennedy, Shirley Young and returning from a few years are Sharon France and JoAn Michal. Hopefully, sunny days will be with us for our remaining weeks.

These gals did well in spite of the foul weather. In Flight A, Marilyn Hartman took it all with a low net of 31 and low puts of 13. In Flight B, there was a tie for low net of 35 between Nancy Glasslee and Retalou Tobin, while low puts of 16 went to Junaita Brown.

In Flight C, Diana Doremire also took it all with low net of 32 and low puts of 14.

We had one chip-in on hole #4 by Marilyn Hartman and a beautiful bird on hole #5 by Diana Doremire. I saw that one and it was a thing of beauty.

There also was a weekly game played and this week it was for the best score on holes 4, 7 and 8. In Flight A, Lynda Hetrick had a 15. In Flight B, Sharon France with a 19 and Flight C, Mo McNamara and Diana Doremire with a 19.

We then had a nice lunch of a glazed chicken salad and a roll or a ham, turkey croissant with a side.

I do want to mention that as you approach the clubhouse, even on this misty day, the flowers that have been planted in the beds and window boxes are so beautiful. A nice variety of different flowers and colors.

Well needless to say, everyone went home to warm up and start praying that next week will be better for us. That's all "fore" now.

Tuesday Morning Ladies League

Grayling Country Golf Club Tuesday Morning Ladies Golf League results: Mickey Perez and Debi Bonkoski are still in first place and Linda Marcereau and Roxanne James have second place. Katy McNamara won low puts with a 32. Fran Upton collected on three skins. Roxanne James had the only chip-in.

200 Mile Yard Sale from Grayling to Oscoda to be held during river festival

The AuSable River Country invites residents of Crawford, Oscoda, Alcona and Iosco counties to make plans to hold your garage/yard/side of the road sales on July 23, 24 and 25 during the canoe marathon festival.

The concept of this garage/yard/side of the road sale in July is to get people into the heartland of rural, scenic AuSable River Country. The event encourages businesses and residents to participate by having yard sales, sidewalk sales and special promotions for a continuous stretch from one end of the sale route to the other; the end result is lots of fun for sellers and shoppers alike.

A route has been mapped out that has been advertised statewide. The AuSable River Country Committee now needs residents to hold sales along that route.

There is no fee to participate, however some seller spaces may charge a nominal rental fee to allow you to set up a booth.

Anyone can be a seller by simply having a sale in their yard, at their business or setting up in designated seller places. Many communities/high school booster clubs/fraternal organizations have different places where sellers from within and outside of that town or city can set up a booth. The main thing is to be sure you have permission from the land owner to set up a booth.

If you intend to conduct your sale on Sunday, beside the canoe marathon there is The Black Bear Bike Tour on Sunday, July 25. They will be leaving Grayling Sunday in groups of 10 starting at 8 a.m. and expect to arrive in Oscoda shortly after noon until around 4 p.m. Some of their route overlaps the 200 Mile Yard Sale. If your location overlaps with the Black Bear Race section please do not set up that day.

For a copy of the route map or more information contact Grayling Regional Chamber of Commerce office 989-348-2921, or Crawford County Economic Development 989-348-9030.

Park & Read program offers free park passes for Crawford County readers

Back for a second summer, the DNRE and the Library of Michigan are offering Park & Read at more than 400 libraries across Michigan.

Park & Read allows library card-holders the ability to check-out a one-day pass into any Michigan state park or recreation area in lieu of the resident daily motor vehicle permit. This $6 savings also provides free access to the more than 500 events taking place in state parks throughout the summer.

For those interested in bringing along a library book for serious beach reading, 71 of the state parks have hammocks available for Park & Read users to borrow while on-site for the day so they can fully enjoy a great book in Michigan's great outdoors.

"This is a great opportunity to try something different. Whether you're looking for time alone or time together, these free passes are a great excuse to go for a picnic, take the kids swimming, or to find your next best fishing spot," said Ron Olson, Recreation Division chief for the DNRE.

Passes are valid for seven days from check-out and can be used for one day at any one of Michigan's 98 state parks. Passes are valid for day-use only. The program is available through Oct. 1, 2010. Crawford County Library System has four passes available to be checked out at the Devereaux Memorial Library. Passes are available on a first come first serve basis.

For more information on the program and a complete list of participating libraries, hammock availability and park events taking place throughout the state, visit www.michigan.gov/stateparks.

United Methodists to celebrate spiritual transformation

Candidates for the first DeColores Women's Weekend Event (June 24-27) will be gathering for a special celebration on Sunday, June 27, during the 9 a.m. and 11 a.m. worship services at Michelson Memorial United Methodist Church, 400 Michigan Avenue, Grayling.

DeColores is a program that enables candidates to experience transformation of mind and spirit through Christ in the midst of Christian fellowship.

Michelson Memorial United Methodist Church in Grayling is now the regional headquarters for such events in this part of Michigan.

The District Superintendent of the Saginaw Bay District of the United Methodist Church, Rev. Louise Ott, will be preaching at both services. Rev. Ott began her ministry 20 years ago, serving as an associate at Ypsilanti First UMC and pastor at Novi UMC in 1997. In 2004, she was appointed by Bishop Jonathan Keaton to serve as District Superintendent of our area.

All in the community are welcome to join this celebration of spiritual transformation. A special reception will follow both services.

For more information contact, Michelson Memorial UMC at 989-348-2974.
